

APPENDIX B

The house at 1133 Pismo is raised one story, rectangular in plan and capped with a hip roof. Straight stairs lead to a front portico clipping the corner of the front. A single classical column sits there and a continuous frieze runs around the building with soffit projecting over. The roof has belcast roof edges. A triplet window is prominent in front and a brick chimney stands to the side. The house is sheathed with clapboard siding and the roof covered with composition shingles. The house is in fair condition but the original integrity has been lost because of a box like addition to the rear which doesn't blend with the rest of the house.

APPENDIX B

The house at 1133 Pismo is raised one story, rectangular in plan and capped with a hip roof. Straight stairs lead to a front portico clipping the corner of the front. A single classical column is there and a continuous frieze runs around the building, with soffits projecting over. The roof has becast roof edges. A triple window is prominent in front and a brick chimney stands to the side. The house is sheathed with clapboard siding and the roof covered with composition shingles. The house is in fair condition but the original integrity has been lost because of a box like addition to the rear which doesn't blend with the best of the house.

